DIVINE MERCY

For the next few weekends,
yard signs of the Divine Mercy image will be available in the church for you to take home.
It was the desire of Jesus that this image be venerated
throughout the world, and He proclaimed, "I promise that the soul that will venerate this image will not perish."
Let us heed this heavenly desire, at a time when the world is in desperate need, by flooding our community with His sacred image as a witness of our abiding faith in His promise.

ENTRANCE INTO JERUSALEM

It was the month of Nisan. The Book of Exodus ordered that in this month the Paschal Lamb was to be selected, and four days later was to be taken to the place where it was to be sacrificed. On Palm Sunday, the Lamb was chosen by popular acclaim in Jerusalem; on Good Friday He was sacrificed.

As He approached the city, a great multitude came to meet Him; among them were not only the citizens but also those who had come up for the feast and, of course, the Pharisees... His 'Hour' had come. It was time now for Him to make the last public affirmation of His claims. He knew it would lead to Calvary, and His Ascension and the establishment of His Kingdom on earth. Once He acknowledged their praise, then there were only two courses open to the city: confess Him as did Peter, or crucify. Either He was their King, or else they would have no king but Caesar. Admitting now that He was the One sent by God, they practically repeated the song of the angels at Bethlehem, for the peace He brought was the reconciliation of Earth and Heaven. Repeated too is the salutation the Wise Men gave Him at the crib: "The King of Israel."

He was the promised Prince of David's line; the One Who came with a Divine Mission. Hosanna, which was originally a prayer, was now a triumphant welcome to a Savior King. Not wholly understanding why He was sent, nor the kind of peace He would bring, they nevertheless confessed that He was Divine. The only ones who did not share in their acclaim were the Pharisees.

The entry had been called Triumphant; but well He knew that Hosannas would change to "crucify", and palms would be turned into spears. Amid the shouts of the multitude, He could hear the whispers of a Judas and the angry voices before Pilate's palace. The throne to which He was hailed was a Cross, and His coronation would be would be a crucifixion.

- Ven Fulton Sheen

"FATHER, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

Christians call them the Triduum Sacru, the three most sacred days of the year, the three most sacred days of all time when time is truly told. Maundy Thursday, so called because that night before he was betrayed he gave the command, the mandatum, that we should love one another. Not necessarily with the love of our desire but with a demanding love, even a demeaning love—as in washing the feet of faithless friends who will run away and leave you naked to your enemies.

Then the second day, the Friday we so oddly call good. And the third day, the Great Vigil of Resurrection conquest. Do not rush to the conquest. Stay a while with this day. Let your heart be broken by the unspeakable bad of this Friday we call good. Some scholars speculate that "Good Friday" comes from "God's Friday," as "goodbye" was originally "God be by you." But it is just as odd that it should be called God's Friday, when it is the day that we say goodbye to the glory of God. Wherever its name comes from, let your present moment stay with this day; stay a while in the eclipse of the light, stay a while with the conquered One. There is time enough for Easter.

By these three days all the world is called to attention. Everything that is and ever was and ever will be, the macro and the micro, the galaxies beyond number and the microbes beyond notice—everything is mysteriously entangled with what happened, with what happens, in these days. This is the axis mundi, the center upon which the cosmos turns. In the derelict who cries from the cross is, or so Christians say, the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. The life of all on this day died. Stay a while with that dying.
