COLLECTION FOR 03/09/2025	Question of the Week:  Looking at my Lenten journey as an exodus from sin and worldly values, what specifically is holding me captive and preventing a truly new life in the risen Lord?

First, God seals the covenant with Abram by appearing as smoke and fire and passing between the animals Abram had sacrificed as a sign of his covenant with God. In the Gospel, Jesus is transfigured in glory, his face and clothing changing in appearance and dazzling the three apostles who witnessed it. Adding to the drama, God the Father speaks from the cloud that envelops them all, saying, "This is my chosen Son; listen to him." Let us now listen to the word of God.

Becoming “Fully Awake”

As we are presented with this glorious event of the Transfiguration this Sunday, there are numerous lessons we can learn from it. The passage above presents us with two particular lessons. First, Peter and his companions were overcome by sleep while Jesus was transfigured in glory and conversing with Moses and Elijah. This line could suggest many things. It could mean that Peter was weak and more concerned with his human condition than he was with attentiveness to the important journey he was invited to take with our Lord. It could reveal a kind of spiritual sloth. It is easy in life to become weary of the journey and to become drowsy at the times that we should be most attentive to our Lord. For example, think about any time when you knew you should pray but instead, sat daydreaming or distracted, or chose to fill that time with something mindless. Peter and his companions, therefore, teach us that it is easy for us in our fallen human nature to “doze off” during those times when God wants to speak to us, especially while at Mass. Another interpretation of this line comes from the Church Father, Saint Ambrose. He suggests that this sleep of Peter and his two companions was primarily a result of them encountering “the incomprehensible brightness of the Divine nature.” As Jesus was transfigured, the initial vision was too much for them to comprehend, and so this vision began with them asleep as a symbol of the fact that we are all incapable of seeing the glory of God in our weakened state. But then they became “fully awake,” which implies that it took time for them to open their eyes to see the glory of God. This lesson teaches us that we all must wake up and work to become fully awake if we are to see the glory of God as He reveals Himself to us. After becoming fully awake and encountering the incomprehensible brightness of the divine nature, Peter says, “Master, it is good that we are here; let us make three tents, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.” The Gospel writer then goes on to say that Peter “did not know what he was saying.” Again, if we turn to Saint Ambrose, he points out that Peter’s experience is commendable because he not only had earnest feelings but also took the initiative of good deeds. He wanted to build three tents so that Jesus, Moses and Elijah would remain with them. But another Church father points out that Peter “did not know what he was saying” because he did not, at that time, realize that it was indeed his mission to build a dwelling place for Jesus, the Law and the Prophets. It was his mission to build the Church, which was to be the future dwelling place of God on earth and the place in which we will encounter God throughout life. You, too, are entrusted with the responsibility of building up the structure of the Church on earth so that many may encounter the full glory of God. This will only happen if you continually seek to become fully awakened to the glory of God as He reveals Himself to you and, in the joy of that encounter, go forth to build up God’s Church by your earnest desire and intentional acts of charity. Reflect, today, upon Peter and his two companions, James and John. Prayerfully ponder them asleep as Jesus was transfigured in glory. Reflect upon them waking up and beginning to realize what was taking place before them. Consider Peter’s excitement and amazement and the effect that had on him. And then ponder how these disciples eventually did go forth to build the Church, the house of God, so that they and many others would come to meet Christ. Pray that the witness of these disciples will inspire you to follow in their footsteps.

Learning to See Anew

Readings: Gen 15:5-12, 17-18; Phil 3:17-4:1 or 3:20-4:1; Luke 9:28b-36

Scripture: While he was praying his face changed in appearance and his clothing became dazzling white. (Luke 9:29)

Reflection: The transfiguration is one of those well-known stories from the Gospels that does not often receive the deep reflection and consideration it deserves. Many of us assume that the transfiguration-when Jesus takes some of his closest followers up a mountain and something rather dramatic unfolds-is the unveiling of Jesus' full divinity. And this is certainly an understandable interpretation. However, if we hold too closely to the idea that Jesus is pulling back part of the curtain to show some secret divinity, then we may start to veer into the theological territory of an ancient heresy known as "Docetism." This was the belief that Jesus Christ was merely "God in disguise" or that Jesus only "appeared" to be human. A modern way of describing this might be "Undercover Boss Christology" -a play on the popular TV show-where God is merely pretending to be like us but retains all the power and benefits of divinity with none of the risks and frailty of humanity. But what if the transfiguration is less about what is happening to Jesus and more about what is happening to those who are with him? What if Jesus' followers are simply seeing him for who he actually is seeing his full identity, his True Self? At one point or another, we all struggle to recognize the fullness of one another's identities and goodness. Our failure to see ourselves and everyone else as beloved of God has led to so many forms of violence and dehumanization. What if we were able to see one another shining like the sun, transfigured before us, not as a result of some magical physical transformation, but because we have learned to see one another anew, to see each other as God sees us?

Meditation: One way to view the transfiguration is to see it as an invitation to look past surface appearances and judgments in order to recognize the beloved status of all God's children. What can I do today to see and love others differently?

Prayer: God of light, illuminate the darkness of my heart that I may see the radiance of your love in all creation. Help me love others as you have first loved us. Help me see the truth of each person's goodness and dignity.

It has come to our attention that there is an ongoing issue at the cemetery, where a mess has been left unaddressed for an extended period of time. We understand that this situation is both distressing and unacceptable, especially in such a sacred space. If anyone has any information regarding these gravesites or may know who is responsible for the work for this gravesite, we ask that you please come forward. It is crucial that we work together to restore the cemetery to a respectful condition. If you have any insights or information, kindly contact the Church office. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Let's all do our part in honoring and respecting the memory of those laid to rest.
