THEY WHO THIRST

At the beginning of His public life, we find Him driving merchants out of the Temple, in fulfillment of the prophecy of Apostleship... Later on, He made use of a dinner invitation to save the soul of Magdalen, and on a hot day made use of a common love of cold water to bring the Samaritan woman to a knowledge of everlasting fountains.

He came, He said, "not to destroy souls, but to save" (Luke 9:56); and, "seeing the multitude, He had compassion them; because they were distressed, and lying like sheep that have no shepherd." (Matt. 9:36) Then He said to His disciples: "The harvest indeed is great, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth laborers into the harvest" (Luke 10:2). His whole mission in life was one of zeal, a hunger, and thirst for the justice of God, which He perhaps best expressed in His words of fire: "I am come to cast fire on the earth: and what will I, but that it be kindled? And I have a baptism wherewith I am to be baptized: and how am I straitened until it is accomplished!" (Luke 12:49-50). "And other sheep I have, that are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd" (John 10:16).

And now, at the end of His life, He yearns still more for justice as He who called Himself the Fountain of Living Waters and He who was figuratively the rock that gave forth water as Moses struck it in the desert, now lets well from out His Sacred Heart the shepherd's call to all the souls in the world: "I thirst." It was not a thirst for Earthly waters, for the earth and its oceans were His. And when they offered Him vinegar and gall as a sedative for His sufferings, He refused it. It was therefore not a physical, but a spiritual thirst that troubled Him-- the thirst for the beatitude of Justice-- an insatiable thirst for the souls of men.

- Ven. Fulton Sheen

ST. PATRICK:

GOD QUALIFIES THE CALLED, NOT THE OTHER WAY AROUND

People are often afraid to begin their journey into missions or ministry because they don't feel educated or qualified enough and often wait to share the Gospel until they feel "ready." St. Patrick, however, was prepared to be obedient when God called, no matter his education. His calling from God could not be ignored. While Patrick was home in England he received a vision from the Lord. He describes it in his writings:

"I saw a man coming, as it were from Ireland. His name was Victorinus, and he carried many letters, and he gave me one of them. I read the heading: "The Voice of the Irish". As I began the letter, I imagined in that moment that I heard the voice of those very people who were near the wood of Foclut, which is beside the western sea--and they cried out, as with one voice: "We appeal to you, holy servant boy, to come and walk among us."

Despite his calling, Patrick was nervous about his ministry because of his education levels. Being abducted at 16 had interrupted his studies and he felt much less intelligent than his peers. He was quite self conscious and even goes as far as to say, "I am unable to explain my mind to learned people." Despite his insecurities, Patrick obeyed God's calling and ended up starting one of the largest Church Multiplication Movements in history.
