DIVINE MERCY

For the next few weekends, yard signs of the Divine Mercy image will be available in the church for you to take home. It was the desire of Jesus that this image be venerated throughout the world, and He proclaimed, "I promise that the soul that will venerate this image will not perish." Let us heed this heavenly desire, at a time when the world is in desperate need, by flooding our community with His sacred image as a witness of our abiding faith in His promise.

Long ago, well just about four years ago, we had a gravel parking lot and driveway. Raise your hand if you remember the holes and mess! We paved the way in 2019 and our Color Run helps pay the loan...concrete was expensive! Lets pay off that loan before we begin the loan for our Multipurpose Facility! The Intentions of Mary S. Guilbeau

THE RESURRECTION THAT PREPARED HIS DEATH

When Our Blessed Lord arrived at Bethany, Lazarus had already been buried for four days. When the news came of the arrival of Jesus, Martha, the active one, rose up and went out to meet Him, while Mary remained at the house. Martha had some confidence in the power of Christ, but it was still a very limited one, for she told Him:

"If Thou hadst been here, my brother would not have died." (John 11:22)

When Our Lord said that her brother would rise again, Martha acknowledged that he would, in the general resurrection on the last day. It was strange that Martha had not heard or remembered, what Our Lord had spoken earlier in the temple (John 5:28) The faith that Martha expressed in the resurrection was that of most of the Jews, with the exception of the Sadducees. As the woman at the well knew that the Messiah would come, and yet did not know that He was already talking to her, so Martha, though believing in the resurrection, did not know that the resurrection was standing before her. As Our Lord told the woman at the well that He was the Massias, so now He said to Martha:

"I am the RESURRECTION and LIFE." (John 11:25)

If Christ had said: "I am the resurrection", without promising to bestow spiritual and ternal life, there would have been only the promise of reincarnations into the successive layers of misery. If He said: "I am the life", without saying "I am the resurrection", we would have merely the promise of our continued discontents.. But by combining the two, He affirmed that in Him was a life which, by dying, rises to perfection; therefore death was not the end, but the prelude to a resurrection in the newness and fullness of life. It was a new way of combining the Cross and Glory, which ran like an antiphon through the Psalm of His life. When Our Lord asked Martha if she believed that whoever believed in Him would never die, she answered: "I learned to believe that Thou art the Christ, Thou art the Son of the living God; It is for Thy coming the world has waited." (John 11:27) This full faith in the Incarnation prepared for the miracle to follow. Mary comes weeping upon the scene. When Our Lord saw her tears and those of her friends, Rather active than passive, He entered into sympathy with death and sorrow, two of the major effects of sin. As He was weak in our weakness, poor in our poverty, so He was sorrowful in our sadness.

...Lazarus came from the tomb with the graveclothes wrapped about him; Here in the full glare of a noonday sun, in the presence of hostile witnesses, a man who has been dead for four days was restored to life in a moment. As the sun shines on mud and hardens it , and shines on wax and softens it, so too this great miracle of Our Blessed Lord hardened some unto unbelief, and softened others unto belief. Some believed, but the general effect was a resolve to put Our Lord to death. [The Pharisees] implied that if He continued to work such miracles and manifest such power, the people might accept Him as their King. But this they thought, would antagonize the Romans who occupied their country. Their aim was to sacrifice Christ in order to not be sacrificed to the Romans. Our Lord had said that He came to give His life as a ransom for sinful humanity. A resurrection sealed His death. Because a stone had been rolled away from a grave and a dead man called back to life, authorities now decreed that a stone should be rolled in front of His grave.

"From that day forward, then, they plotted His death." (John 11:53)
