Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, spare us, O Lord.

Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, hear us, O Lord.

Lamb of God, you take away the sins of the world, have mercy on us.

He made him master of his house, and ruler of all his possessions.
Let us pray.

O God, who in your inexpressible providence were pleased to choose Saint Joseph as spouse of your most holy Mother,
grant, we pray,
that we, who revere him as our protector on earth,
may be worthy of his heavenly intercession.
Who live and reign for ever and ever.
R. Amen.

Pride manifests itself in many forms: Atheism, which is the denial of our dependence on God, our Creator and our final end; intellectual vanity, which makes minds unteachable because they think they know all there is to know; superficially, which judges others by their clothes, their accent and their bank account; snobbery, which sneers at inferiors as the earmark of its own superiority; vainglory, which prompts some Catholic parents to refuse to send their boys and girls to Catholic colleges, because there they would associate only with the children of carpenters; presumptuousness, which inclines a man to seek honors and positions quite beyond his capacity; and exaggerated sensitiveness, which makes one incapable of moral improvements because of unwillingness to hear one's own faults.

In all, the human body, chemically, is worth a little less than two dollars-- "O why should the spirit of mortal be proud?" But spiritually we are worth more than the universe: "For what shall it profit a man, if he gains the whole world, and suffer the loss of his soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his souls?" (Mark 8:36-37) God resists the proud. The Pharisees who praised his own good deeds in the forefront of the Temple is condemned; the poor publican in the rear of the Temple who calls himself a sinner and strikes his breast in a plea for pardon, goes to his house justified. Nothing is more difficult to conquer in all the world than intellectual pride. This is easy to understand for if a man thinks he knows it all, there is nothing left for him to know, not even what God might tell him. If the soul is filled to the brim with the ego, there is no place left for God.

Faith is not, as too many believe, an emotional trust; it is not a belief that something will happen to you; it is not even a will to believe despite difficulties. Rather, faith is the acceptance of a truth on the authority of God revealing. It, therefore, presupposes reason. We are trustees, not creators, of faith. In the name of God, let us, Jews, Protestants and Catholics, do two things: 1. Realize that an attack upon one is an attack upon all since we are all one in God; it is not tolerance we need but charity; not forbearance but love. 2. Begin doing something about religion, and the least we can do is to say our prayers: to implore God's blessings upon the world and our country; to thank Him for His blessings, and to become illumined in the fullness of His truth. There is entirely too much talk about religion and not enough action.
